

THE PESSIMIST'S PHRASE BOOK

1. Now, we would like to know; why you won't go to the party?
2. It's simple, everything will be wrong
3. Why do you say that?
4. Because I heard the news today. It will rain for sure
5. But the party will be within a disco
6. It's OK, but nobody will go
7. Why?
8. Because the traffic will collapse
9. Why do you think so?
10. Because there will be rivers down the streets
11. This situation will cause the state of emergency
12. And people will try to save their lives running here and there
13. There will be looting everywhere. So I will watch over my own house

TRANSPOSITIONS

SO I WILL WATCH OVER MY OWN HOUSE

| | |
|---|---|
| Keep an eye business on and (contracted) your children she didn't show up watch over family be with friends | So I will keep an eye over my own house So I will keep an eye over my own business So I will keep an eye on my own business And I will keep an eye on my own business And I'll keep an eye on my own business And I'll keep an eye on your business And I'll keep an eye on your children And she will* keep an eye on her children And he will* keep an eye on his children And he will* watch over his children And he will* watch over his family And he will* be with his family And he will* be with his friends |
|---|---|

*"He'll" is acceptable when speaking, but when writing, we suggest you use the pronoun followed by will.